Dear Ben,

Thank you for your letter.

I'm sorry I haven't written for such a long time. The reason is I've been too busy with the pen traps, BEN.

You asked me about where I spent my summer. In June, I went to a ski resort in Elbrus. You must have heard this name, because Elbrus is the highest mountain in Europe.

I liked snowboarding the most. While you were abroad on sweltering beaches, I was looking at mountain peaks, so don't brag, dear BEN. I would like to see Turkey and admire the architecture.

Have you been to Turkey?

I must go now.

With love,

Zaliny.

In our days people cannot do without computers.

They are used at hospitals, shops, schools etcetera. Can they completely replace humans?

I am against computers replacing humans. Firstly, this will lead to an increase in ~~un~~ unemployment, imagine instead of a human worker, some kind of robot cooks food.

Secondly, life will become less interesting, for example, although gardening seems boring if a robot constantly does everything for us, we will soon miss these activities. Thirdly, people ~~simply~~ become lazy, stop moving in any way and their body atrophies.

On ^{the} other hand, computers make people's work easier, save their time.

I come to the conclusion that computers have both harm and benefit. I approve of their use in computational and analytical work, but I am categorically against the part that they do what every person should be able to do and do. For example, cooking, cleaning, communication, etc. After all, no one guarantees ~~that~~ ^{that} computers ~~will~~ will.

always work, the system can completely turn off and people will have to do all the work again, but here's a surprise! They cannot do this, because all these banal actions have not been practiced for a long time and have been forgotten. And if person knows how to do something, then his knowledge will remain with him and no computer failure will prevent him from living as before.

So, computers can be used, but in the right way and wisely

Всероссийская олимпиада школьников. Школьный этап.

Английский язык 9-11 класс

1. Прочитайте тексты и установите соответствие между текстами А-Е и заголовками 1-6. Запишите свои ответы в таблицу. Используйте каждую цифру только один раз. В задании есть один лишний заголовок.

1. Languages spoken in Britain

2. The origin of English

3. Modern language tendencies

4. Regional varieties of English

5. English in Australia

6. Global English A.

English is basically a Germanic language with a lot of Latin words in it. In simple terms, that means that the grammar and many of the most frequent words are Germanic, and the more formal or technical vocabulary is Latinate. The linguistic mixture is a result of historical events. But the simple historical facts appear not to explain everything about the development of the language. One interesting question is why the British did not learn Latin from the Romans.

B.

It came as a surprise to many people when a survey showed that 172 languages were spoken by children in London schools: Chinese, Turkish, Italian, Spanish, Punjabi and others. Some of these, like the West African language Ga, only have a couple of speakers. But others, like Punjabi, are quite significant linguistic community, with their own radio programmes and newspapers, and classes for children – to ensure that they don't forget the language of their grandparents.

C.

A nasty shock awaits many visitors to Britain. Imagine you have learnt English for years, you can read newspapers and you have no problem following the television, but when you go into a shop in Newcastle you can't understand a word they are saying. It is the accent, mostly the vowels, which gives the visitor a problem in the shop. Some accents are so strong that they present problems for British people, too. Intonation patterns also differ between regions.

D.

Billions of people speak English, two-thirds of the planet's scientists write in English, and over 80% of the world's electronic information is stored in English. But not all the British are really self-satisfied about the status of their language. But they are quite well aware that today it is out of their hands: the reasons for the popularity of English are either lost in history, or something to do with the superpower on the other side of the Atlantic.

Let's look at the speech of young people in Britain. Here we can find several interesting developments. One is a spread of a light London accent over much of the country. Another is an openness, through the media, to American and Australian influences. The Australian effect is quite recent, and the results from the huge popularity of Australian TV soap operas. It is the phrases, idioms and grammatical forms which are catching.

3. You have 30 minutes to do this task. You have received a letter from your English-speaking pen friend, Ben.

...I've just been to Australia. I saw kangaroos and koalas! I even learned surfing at one of the Australian beaches! That was unbelievable! I definitely want to go there again!
 ...Where did you spend your last summer? What did you like most about it? Which country would you like to visit one day, why? ...

Write him a letter and answer his 3 questions. Write 100-120 words.
Remember the rules of letter writing.

4. Comment on the following statement: Computers cannot replace people.
What is your opinion? Write 200-250 words. Use the following plan:

- make an introduction (state the problem)
- express your personal opinion and give 2-3 reasons for your opinion
- express an opposing opinion and give 1-2 reasons for this opposing opinion
- explain why you don't agree with the opposing opinion
- make a conclusion restating your position
